Bobby Rouch, French Hornist and Flueglhornist extraordinaire, has been in demand in both the classical and jazz worlds for his entire career. He grew up in Allentown, Pa. earning his music degree from the prestigious Julliard School of music. At 17 he was chosen to perform the Straus Concerto #1 with the Philadelphia Orchestra. He has since performed with over 50 orchestras throughout the U.S. and Europe. His own group, Confluence recorded on Sunnyside records and was widely acclaimed . Currently on faculty at the Manhattan School of Music, he is also a member of the Mingus Dynasty band, playing in NYC regularly. He and Alan have been adding new (and vintage) pieces to their library and plan to record soon.
